

FRIDAY, JANUARY 20, 1744.

Genoa, January 4.

I have received lately a distinct Account of the Pacification of Corsica. The People, it seems, grew heartily tired of the Inconveniences of the War, and therefore acquainted the Commissary of the Republick, that they were ready to yield to the Accommodation. As a Proof of which, they assured him, that they would take no Advantage of the present distressed Circumstances of the Common Wealth; but would make their former Preliminary the Basis of the present Treaty. The Commissary demanded some important Posts for the Security of himself and his Garrison, during the Time of the Treaty, which was readily yielded to; and being digested into a Decree, was sent to the general Assembly of the Pieves, in different Counties of the Island; who debated it by Article on the 8th and 9th of December, and subscribed it on the 10th; declaring to the Marquis Juvenet, when they deliver'd it to him, that they would for the future, behave as became good Subjects; and that they were ready to levy 10,000 Men for the Service of the Republick, if she had Occasion for them. By this Treaty, the Genoese are to have four Governors in the Island; viz. one at Corte, another at Vico, a third at Aléria, and a fourth at Sarte. There are to be three Bishops, all Natives of the Island, at Calvi, Aleria, and Nebbio. There is to be a College formed, consisting of 10 Nobles, who are to form the Upper House in the Assembly of the States; the Deputies from the Pieves making up the Lower; and without their joint Consent, no Tax shall be imposed for the future. All the Inhabitants of the Island, without distinction, are to carry Arms; their old Privileges are to be restored in their utmost Extent, and the Corsicans treated, for the future, as Subjects and Allies, rather than Vassals; in which Light they have been hitherto considered.

Daguna, January 7. We have certain Intelligence, that the Duke of Modena's Retreat was owing to the Arrival of three English Ships in the Neighbourhood of Alona; and to an Express from Naples, by which he was informed, that the King of the Two Sicilies could not comply with what the Court of Spain expected from him. The Duke then proposed to the Count de Gages to venture a Battle before the Austrians could receive all the Succours they expected; but that General disapproved the Duke's Scheme, persisting in his Resolution to retire into the Kingdom of Naples; upon which the Duke of Modena declared, that he would quit the Army, and retire to Venice, which he has accordingly done; and since that time, the Count de Gages has been occupied in making all possible Preparations for his Retreat; and to secure it the better, has ruined the principal Roads by which the Austrians might follow them.

Vienna, January 11. The Negotiations which our Sovereign has entered into with the several Courts of Germany, are very likely to prevent the Schemes of her Enemies from taking Place, by exposing their Designs. We flatter ourselves, that the Declaration of the Circle of Subbia will have very great Weight; and either oblige the French to demolish the Works they have lately erected on the Rhine, or, at least, compel them to observe a strict Neutrality, without attempting to enter the Empire a second Time, on any Pretence whatever. We have already received considerable Benefit from the Treaty lately concluded at Dresden; in consequence of which, the Saxon Ministers at the Dyet labour incessantly to procure the Admission of Baron Palm, and to adjust the Affair of the Dictature, on Terms reasonable in respect to both Parties.

Frankfort, January 19. We were, for some Time, doubtful, as to the Truth of the late Report, that a Triple Alliance was concluded between the Emperor, and the Kings of France and Spain; of which, however, we have now very convincing Proofs. His Imperial Majesty has lately received his first Remittance from the Court of Madrid, which amounts to 100,000 Pistoles in Gold. We expect a great Sum of Money daily from France; and, as soon as it arrives, we are assured, that the Emperor will issue out Orders for assembling an Army of Neutrality, which is to consist of between 60 and 70,000 Men; and is to be employed in hindering every more Foreign Troops, of what Denomination soever, from entering Germany. His most Christian Majesty has sent an Agent to Vienna, in order to settle the Ransom of the French Prisoners in Hungary, which, it is said, will be fixed at 18 Florins per Head; and, if so, the Queen of Hungary will receive no less than 150,000 Ducats, for the Troops that are at present Prisoners of War. As soon as this Business shall be over, his Imperial Majesty will likewise treat, for the Ransom of his Troops that were made Prisoners at Braunau; by which Negotiations, when perfected, about 35,000 Regular Troops will obtain their Liberty.

Hague, January 25. According to our last Accounts from Paris, M. de Chauvelin owes the Kindness lately shewed him, to the Intercession of the Dukes of Orleans and Noailles. We talk here of a fourth Augmentation in three Weeks or a Month; and, it is likewise said, that it will be immediately carried into Execution, by taking a considerable Body of German Troops into our Pay; which are to join the Confederate Army, after the Barrier Towns, and particularly Mons, shall be fortified. We have Advice from the West-Indies, that the Spaniards there are in a very wretched Condition, which is, in a great measure, owing to their Want of a right Conduct; but, to balance this, they tell us, that the French will speedily send a strong Squadron, well provided with Ammunition and Naval Stores, into those Parts.

Mr. Wilson, of the oldest State-Lottery-Office, Charing-Cross, hath desired us (for the Satisfaction of Adventurers in the present State-Lottery) to assure the Publick, that he hath, with the utmost Care and Exactness, doubly compared and checked his Accounts of the drawing of the Banks and Prizes, with those of the Commissioners, so that there can now remain no Possibility of a Mistake; and as it has been experimentally found, that for Want of this necessary Precaution several Mistakes have arisen, and Tickets which have been deemed Banks, by being examined at erroneous Books, have afterwards proved Prizes; therefore those Persons who are desirous of being certainly informed of the Success of their Tickets, may depend upon the most accurate and exact Account at his Office. The Prizes he immediately pays the Money for, as well as Banks.
